Myint Myint's Story: Dreams Come True through Vocational Training Support for Youth

25 year old Myint Myint comes from a simple family. With six family members, her parents primary livelihood has been farming. As the eldest daughter, opportunities for an education are limited. Furthermore, youth in the Northern Shan State struggle to find employment, particularly in skilled work. Most youths migrate in search of other work opportunities, the rest often work in farming and agriculture.

When Myint Myint heard about ADRA Myanmar's VESI project offering vocational training in her area, she jumped at the chance shortly enrolling in 54 days of Basic Sewing training as a student in Batch 5.

"When I was selected for the short course, I was very happy because sewing is my passionate hobby"

In this training, the trainees learn about recognizing and using sewing tools and machines, and how to sew a variety of designs for men, women, and babies.

The LIFT Myanmar funded VESI project in partnership with AVSI and the Finnish Refugee Council, aims to provide vocational training to youth in IDP camps in Northern Shan State to increase their income and meet the needs of the labor market.

Included in the activity, ADRA provides meal allowances, teaching materials, and COVID-19 protective gear (Mask, Hand gel, Face shield) throughout the training to students.

After graduation, Myint Myint was able to set up her own small business in her home. She receives orders for 20 dresses each month earning 200,000 kyats that she uses to support her family with her own income.

"Although I started my small tailoring business, I still need more capital for other necessary machines and tools".

Myint Myint claims that the knowledge and skills she gained from the vocational training short course gave her enough confidence to start her own business, creating a better life and further career opportunities.

Most youths in her area do not have reliable careers with limited access to skills-based training that can help them hunt for better job opportunities. That's why Myint Myint believes this ADRA project is needed for youth in her area. She hopes her own small tailoring business will be successful as she sells spare parts for tailoring and traditional dresses she's learned to make herself.

“ Thank you very much for the great support in improving my career. My dream is to own a successful tailoring business ”

REFLECTIONS

Serve With Love

When we were young, we were taken care of by our parents and elders. In Myanmar, it is within our culture's history of love that when our parents are getting older, we take care of them again. Jesus clearly mentions that if you want to become a good leader, you need to become the kind of leader who serves others.

“Not so with you. Instead, whoever wants to become great among you must be your servant, and whoever wants to be first must be your slave— just as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many.” Matthew 20:26-28 (NIV)

On the other hand, without love, we cannot serve others heartfully. The following bible verse teaches us how we should serve others with love. 1 Corinthians 13:4- 7 (NIV) says “Love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres.”

Service is a beautiful concept that is tricky to live out well. Service without love in an organization, most of the time, leads to bad outcomes. Love is like oxygen for humans. I wish you to be able to serve all mankind with love according to the will of GOD.
